À : Membres de l'académie des sciences sociales (Académie II)
De : Conseil de la SRC

Objet : Élection du président élu de l'académie II

Chères et chers membres de l'académie des sciences sociales,

La procédure de mise en candidature d'un président élu de l'académie des sciences sociales a été lancée par le secrétariat de la SRC cet été. Le rôle du comité de nomination de la SRC pendant cette procédure est de recevoir les candidatures confirmées par le secrétariat. Pour le prochain mandat et conformément aux règles de notre académie, qui prévoient une alternance de la présidence au sein des deux divisions, les candidatures devaient être issues de la division anglophone. Le comité de nomination a dû établir une liste de trois candidats au maximum sur la base des critères établis par la Société, dont l'expérience en gestion académique, la disponibilité à endosser ce rôle, et un engagement à l'égard des missions de l'académie et de la Société. Le comité a également dû prendre en compte la vision du candidat pour l'avenir et ses priorités pour l'académie.

Le secrétariat de la SRC a reçu une candidature confirmée qui lui a été envoyée avec tous les documents pertinents. Cette candidature est celle de Janine Brodie, de la University of Alberta, membre de la division anglophone. Après avoir vérifié que cette candidature rencontrait toutes les exigences requises pour la fonction de président élu de l'académie des sciences sociales, les membres du conseil de la SRC ont proposé de proclamer l'élection par acclamation de Janine Brodie pour le rôle de présidente élue de l'académie des sciences sociales. Elle endossera sa nouvelle fonction lors de l'assemblée générale annuelle en novembre 2018 et siègera au conseil d'administration de la SRC et au conseil d'administration de l'académie des sciences sociales en tant que membre de novembre 2018 à novembre 2022.

Cordialement,

Chad Gaffield

Biographie – Janine Brodie

Dr. Janine Brodie, MSRC, CM, éminente professeure universitaire (émérite), Département des sciences politiques, University of Alberta

Dr. Brodie a rédigé de nombreux ouvrages relatifs aux enjeux majeurs de la gouvernance et de la politique canadiennes, dont le régionalisme, la politique genrée, la politique sociale et les discours sur la citoyenneté. Les contributions multiples du Dr. Brodie aux sciences sociales au Canada peuvent être catégorisées en trois branches : 1) le genre et la politique ; 2) l'économie politique et la gouvernance ; 3) les études sur la citoyenneté. L'engagement intellectuel de longue date du Dr. Brodie à l'égard du genre et de la politique a été le moteur dans la mise en place et la définition de ce domaine de recherche, tout d'abord en explorant les barrières à la représentation politique puis en suivant les opportunités et les contraintes liées aux plaintes fondées sur le genre et les prises de décision au sein à la fois des paradigmes de gouvernance socio-libéraux d'après-guerre et néolibéraux contemporains. Ses contributions approfondies à l'étude de l'économie politique et de la gouvernance portent sur la politique partisane, l'identité, le régionalisme, la mondialisation, l'intégration continentale, les pratiques de gouvernance néolibérale et les régimes de politique sociale en mutation.

Les travaux du Dr. Brodie sur la citoyenneté vont au-delà des modèles décontextualisés de citoyenneté démocratique libérale en suivant les discours nationaux en mutation relatifs à ce qu'elle appelle les négociations sécuritaires « citoyen-état », qui ont défini l'icône Canadien (l'inclus) et divers sujets disciplinaires (l'exclus), ainsi que les paramètres de justice sociale. Son dernier volume publié, Contemporary Inequalities and Social Justice in Canada (UTP 2018), étudie les manières dont les essais de gouvernance néolibérale implantent des insécurités sociales et politiques dans la vie quotidienne des Canadiens. Le livre invite les Canadiens à repenser la justice sociale pour qu'elle reconnaisse la diversité croissante du Canada, la racialisation et l'indigénité ainsi que la précarité dans laquelle vivent de nombreux Canadiens (surtout les jeunes). Le Dr. Brodie organise la conférence annuelle Hurtig sur l'avenir du Canada depuis 2005. Elle a également endossé des rôles de direction dans la gouvernance de la University of Alberta et au sein de l'académie de la Société royale du Canada. Ses recherches et son leadership ont été reconnus, entre autres, par une bourse de la Fondation Pierre-Elliott Trudeau, la médaille Innis-Gérin de la SRC en sciences sociales, la médaille du jubilé de diamant de la Reine Elizabeth II, la coupe universitaire de la University of Alberta et récemment, elle a été nommée à l'Ordre du Canada.

Énoncé de vision - Janine Brodie

C'est un honneur d'être nommée au titre de Présidente de l'académie des sciences sociales (divisions anglophone et francophone). Au cours des quatre dernières décennies, j'ai servi fièrement en tant que scientifique sociale par profession (sciences politiques) et par imagination. Bien que récemment les concepts de « sciences » et de « social » aient été attaqués dans certains milieux, je reste profondément dévouée aux missions des sciences sociales que je pense essentielles, à savoir révéler les multiples façons dont les inégalités de représentation, de ressources et de reconnaissance définissent les promesses de la vie quotidienne et générer des preuves et des arguments par une recherche et un engagement qui développent de nouvelles compétences sociales repensant le possible.

Au cours de ma carrière, j'ai tenté de faire progresser cette vision par mes recherches, mon enseignement et le service à des organisations académiques. En tant que membre engagée de la Société royale du Canada, j'ai endossé de nombreux rôles de direction dont celui de membre puis de présidente du comité des médailles (2004, 2006), directrice adjointe puis directrice de la division anglophone de l'académie des sciences sociales (2007-2014), membre et présidente du comité de sélection des nouveaux membres de cette division (2007-2014) et organisatrice de la conférence annuelle de la SRC en 2013, intitulée « Social Justice in the 21st Century: Toward a New Intergenerational Social Contract ». Pendant cette période, j'ai travaillé en étroite collaboration avec des membres des deux divisions de l'académie (dont deux futurs présidents, Constance Backhouse et Alain Gagnon) pour renforcer la représentation de l'académie et sa réactivité à la diversité croissante du Canada (genre, race/ethnie, appartenance autochtone, langue, région, discipline), et pour faire augmenter le nombre de membres possibles alloués par la SRC à l'académie des sciences sociales.

En tant que Présidente de l'académie des sciences sociales, je voudrais poursuivre les principales initiatives entreprises par mes prédécesseurs, telles que :

- Améliorer la participation des membres au sein de la SRC
- Rendre l'académie plus inclusive et réactive au paysage social canadien de plus en plus diversifié
- Mobiliser les membres de l'académie pour qu'ils contribuent aux discours nationaux essentiels (par exemple, par l'intermédiaire de groupes d'experts, de profils de recherche et de conférences) sur la réconciliation, la précarité, l'inégalité et la durabilité, et particulièrement les expériences sans précédent des dynamiques autochtones urbaines et celles « majorité-minorité » dans les villes canadiennes.
- Accroître les liens, les occasions de mentorat et les collaborations entre l'académie et le Collège de nouveaux chercheurs.

De manière plus fondamentale, la direction de l'académie des sciences sociales sera dédiée au développement de stratégies concrètes et de programmes qui adopteront et mettront en place la vision d'une SRC renouvelée telle que mentionnée dans son nouveau plan stratégique intitulé « Mobiliser, Stimuler, Soutenir » (2018-2022).
